The Wealth of a Prince. MONEY IN BANK AND A MYSTERIOUS TRUNK OPEN SESAME.

Messrs, Packard & Venable yesterday appeared in the Orphans' Court and, as advisory counsel of Gotfried Rettz, made known to the court the death, on December 31, 1880, of Nicholas Merluzzi, and asked instructions as to what disposition should be made of his effects. Subsequent inquiry developed rather a curious state of affairs in regard to the deceased. He came, it appears, to Baltimore five or more years ago, and up to rather more than a year ago worked very steadily at his trade of a he had all this time, ing mouth after month, been maniimaginings and singular He finally stopped work ber, and gave out that he was of oval blood, and was indeed a veritable Prince of Italy." He made the office of prominent lawyer on Lexington street headquarters, and was to be found there very day, and frequently all day, diligentreading the law-books. Soon afterwards began to baunt the Orphans' Court. where he would ask to see the will of first one prominent and wealthy man and then another, which proceedings at last exciting the curlosity of the clerks, they discovered that he was possessed with the idea that the deceased whose wills he was exam-ining had bequeathed him large sums of money, of which the courts were seeking to deprive him. Meanwhile he was living in a room reated of Mr. Reitz, on Albemarle street, where that gentleman says his expenditure for food per week never exceeded from sixty to sixty-five cents, bough it was known that he had a considerable sum in the City Savings Bank. During Merluzzi's last illuess, and when it for the year 1880; was plain that he had but a short time to im, asked him what he wanted done with money. Railroad Construction During 1880 CHICAGO, January 6 .- The Railway Age, n its fortbeoming No., presents a summary showing the mile ge of track actually laid down in the United States during 1880. The footings are astonishing, showing that not less than 7,027 miles of new track were laid during the past twelve months on at least 234 different lines. These figures are greater than for any year since 1871, and the mileage is greater by 54 per cent, than that of 1879. The Age anticipates that final figures will increase the grand total to 7,500 miles a mileage greater than has been constructed in the United States or any other country in any previous year. The total mileage of the country is 93,704.
